Prevention Activity Book

Hey you,

I just want to tell you something really important.....

If you see something, say something. Please, don't let fear shut your mouth when your voice could be the very thing that saves somebody else's life. I wish someone had spoken up for me. I was scared. I was terrified. I didn't know how to reach out for help. I didn't even know if anyone would believe me. So I stayed silent. But if just one person would've noticed... if just one person would've said something... maybe things could've been different a lot sooner. Don't be afraid to speak up.

Look around. Pay attention. Watch your surroundings. If something feels off, it probably is. Trust that gut feeling. And don't think you're being dramatic or paranoid, your instincts matter.

And if you're the one in a situation right now, listen to me:

You matter. You are brave. You are strong. It is NOT your fault. There is hope and there is help. You are not alone.

With love,

From a survivor who made it out.
